

HANDIN POLICY CS 007 / 401 / 445

---

Instructor: Tim Hoffman

Most of your assignments for this course will be handed in using a web based utility written by a former student (Eric Mazza) of CS-445.

<http://intranet.cs.pitt.edu/~hoffmant/HS007/index.php>

<http://intranet.cs.pitt.edu/~hoffmant/HS401/index.php>

<http://intranet.cs.pitt.edu/~hoffmant/HS445/index.php>

Most of your programming assignments will be auto graded by this system. As soon as you upload the required files to the server, the handin page will tell you whether the code compiled or not. If it does not it will be rejected. At that point you can exit the handin, go fix your code and try again. Once you submit compiling code the system will execute and grade your program within a few minutes (usually).

As soon as that process is done you may check your grade and feedback via this same webpage interface. This feedback is only reporting on the correctness of the output. It is not (yet) a confirmation that you are done.

If you do not get a perfect score on your program, you may try again by submitting another file(s) for the assignment and wait for the feedback. Each time you try again you must resubmit ALL files. You may submit as many times as you like (up until the deadline) except where instructed otherwise.

If you do get a perfect score you must understand that this score is only a measurement of the correctness of output. Only after you get the output perfect, a human will back read your code within 24 hours (usually) and add comments to your feedback file for that project.

Once you read that human feedback, you may resubmit again if deductions were made by that human grader. If you start early and check your feedback often, you can give yourself enough time to correct your errors. You must start early, submit early, and check your feedback often.

Late Submissions and related penalties

The Handin system will allow you to submit an assignment up to two days late. For each day you are late we will charge you a 20% penalty. If you become ill you must get documentation from student health. If you have a family emergency/tragedy you must get your academic advisor to contact me to confirm such circumstances.